PRESERVATION OF GAME.

THE GAME on the estate of PERTH having been much destroyed for some years past, Lord Perth is under the necessity of recalling all permissions hitherto granted to shoot on his estate. From this consideration and the extreme backwardness of the season, Lord Perth has resolved to preserve the Game this year. He therefore trusts a reservation so necessary will not be eneroached on.

Poachers and other unqualified persons are positively prohibited from shooting under pain of the strictest prosecution.

PRESERVATION OF GAME.

MR MAULE of PANMURE, though exceedingly reluctant to prevent any of his Friends, or any Gentleman, from sporting on his Estates in the County of FORFAR, begin they will refrain from it for the ensuing season, as the Game has suffered so much from the severity of last winter and spring that he finds it necessary to give it a Juhilee for the present.—Mr MAULE is persuaded no Gentleman will shoot or hunt upon these grounds after this intimation; and poachers may depend upon being prosecuted with the utmost severity, particular orders being given to the game-keepers and ground-officer for discovering and bringing to punishment all offenders.

N. B.—A handsome Reward will be given to any person giving information, so as to convict any poacher, by applying to John Spence, Esq. at Brechin.

PROSTETION:

Twelve months ago it would have been absolutely necessary for the conductors of a publication, assuming such a title as that which we have chosen for ourselves, to enter into a reguler definition of its meaning, and an ample exposition of the principles which influenced its adoption. Such necessity, however, exists not at present; all that is requisite on this head has been already done by our predecessors, whose principles we adopt, and whose paths we mean to pursue. The estitunce of a Jacobin faction in the bosom of our country can no longer be denied: Its members are vigilant, persevering, indefastigable; despurate in their plans, and daring in their language. The format of licentiousness, meeds, in violence and duration, all former examples. Their faisehoods have been detected, their errors exposed, their misrepresentations corrected, and their malignity pointed out and chaitsed.—Still they persist, callons alike to the emotions of farehand have found ready advocates in the heart of our Metropolis, and in the feats of our Universities. As such a time, what friend of social order will deny, that the Press requires some strong controul? and what courtroul is more effectual than that which the Press itself can supply? Faischood is best out as the proposity of the public sentiment respections to provide the proposed by the promulgation of truth.—Magna of version of the position of the public sentiment respective of Andrew Handows.

ISPATCHES, of which the following are extracts, were this day received from the Right Hocourable Lord Henley by the Right Honourable Lord Grenville, his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Foreign Department.

Extract of a Letter from Lord Henney to Lord Grenville, dated Vienna, July 6. 1799.

The letters from Constantinople of the 18th past, flate, that official intelligence had been received by the Turkish Government from Acri, that the garrison of that place had made, on the 21st of May, a general fally against the army of General Buonaparte, had completely defeated it, and put a great part of it to the fword; that General Buonaparte had in consequence found himself obliged to set fire to his camp and baggage, and to avail himself of the darkness of the night to retire towards Joppa; that Gezzar Pacha had immediately not only fent his cavalry in pursuit of him, thad dispatched orders to the proper places, in as far as might be possible to straiten or cut off his retreat; and that the heads of thirteen French Generals and three hundred French officers, fent by different Tar-tars, had arrived at Conflantinople, and had been exposed, according to custom, on the gates of the Palace, with a fuitable infcription.

A fecond messenger from Marshal Suwarrow, difpatched from Alessandria on the 1st instant, is just arrived. I am informed, that besides a detailed relation of the brilliant fuccesses of the Imperial army on the 17th, 18th, and 19th past, and by which it appears, that the loss of the French amounts in all to twenty thousand men killed and taken prisoners, he brings an account of the Anstrians having re-occupied the town

Extract of a Letter from Lord HENLEY to Lord GRENVILLE

An express arrived yesterday with dispatches from General Kray of the 1st instant, mentioning the surrender of Bologna, by capitulation, to General Klenau, on the preceding day.

In addition to the intelligence which I lately convey ed to your Lordship of the defeat of General Buona parte, and his flight to Joppa, I have now to state, that this Government has received official accounts from Constantinople, dated the 22d past, that Joppa had been taken by the allied force, (meaning, it is to be Supposed, that under Sir Sidney Smith and a body of Turks;) that Buonaparte had reached El Arist, on the frontier of Syria, in his flight; and that it was scarcely to be believed that in his present circumstances of diffress he would be able to gain in safety the Egyptian fide of the Defart.

Extract of a Letter from Lord Henney to Lord GRENVILLE dated Vienna, July 11. 1792.

It is with great and unfeigned pleafure, that I inform your Lordship, that a messenger arrived here about an hour ago from Florence, with letters dated the evening of the 6th inflant, flating, that on the preceding day the people had affembled in great force, and cut down what is flyled the tree of liberty; the French fentinels, and corps de garde, had retired into the forts, and that the following day all the French troops had left that town and Pistoia, and marched towards Leghorn; the old Magistrates had immediately refumed their func tions, and had replaced the arms of the Grand Duke in the places from which they had been taken down.-No diforder whatever had taken place, and the greatef demonstrations of joy had been exhibited by all ranks

General Klenau writes on the 7th from Bologna that in confequence of the instances of the Magistrates of Florence, he had fent thither a detachment of troops under the command of Colonel D'Afpre; these troops were attacked by the French garrison that marched out of Bologna, but succeeded in repelling them.

Copy of a Letter from George Losack, Esq. Captain of his Majesty's ship Jupiter, to Evan Nepean, Esq. dated in Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope, February 25.

I HAVE the honour to inclose, for their Lordships information, a copy of a letter I have received from Captain Henry Lidgbird Ball, of his Majesty's ship the Dædalus, stating the particulars of the capture of La Prudente French national frigate, in latitude 31 degrees 30 minutes fouth, longitude 33 degrees 20 minutes east.

La Prudente is a fine ship, but the repairs she would require to sit her for his Majesty's service, would, in this country, amount to a large fum of money, in my opinion more than the ship is worth. I have, therefore, declined taking her into his Majesty's service.

I have the honour to be, &c. GEO. LOSACK. His Majesty's ship Dædalus, Table-Bay, Cape of Good Hope, Febru-ary 16, 1799.

She proved to be La Prudente French national frigate, from the Isle of France, manned with 297 men, and mounts 26 twelve-pounders on the main deck, two long fix pounders and two brafs how itzers on the quarter-deck; fhe is pierced for 42 guns, 14 on a fide, befides the bridle-port on the main-deck; built at Brest about eight years since, and is a very fine large thip. The thip in her company, when we first faw her, was an American, which they had fent on to the Isle of France as a prize. It is with great fatisfac-tion that I communicate the capture of La Prudente, being one of the frigates which has done fo much injury to our trade in the East Indies for some time past.

All the officers and ship's company of his Majesty

HAMBURGH MAIL (From the Court Gazette.

According to reports from Generals Melas and Kray, General Macdonald was retreating towards Pistoja and by reports of persons exploring the country, he intends to collect his troops at Florence, and to march to Leghorn, where he is faid to be charged to embark them. General Victor, who was with General Macdonald's army, has taken the road to the Riviera, by Borgo Val di Taro.

On our fide, Field Marshal Lieutenant Ott has advanced with his division to Rubiera, and sent before him his advanced guard, under General Count Klenau, to the river Panaro, to cover the roads of Spillambergo, Bignola and Puolo, and at the same time the high road leading through Reggio, Modena and Parma.

On the Riviera, General Moreau has also retreated from Novi; and, as all accounts uniformly state, directed his retreat towards Genoa. In order to give fome rest and ease to our army, fatigued by so many successive marches, it has encamped on the Orda, occupied Novi, and small corps make incursions towards the Bochetta and the valley of the Bormida.

VIENNA-JULY 6.

This morning, Prince Sulkowsky, and last night Cap. Nuchanz, of the Staff, arrived express from Italy, and two Russian officers, as couriers, who set out for Petersburgh, with French standards, and other trophies of war.

By the first we learn, that Field-Marshal Suwarrow has defeated General Moreau, after a battle of three days; and the citadel of Alessandria is said to have furrendered to the allies. The latter brings the confirmation of the important intelligence of General Moreau having been completely defeated and put to flight by the allies, in the Genoese, after one of the bloodiest battles. Suwarrow's difpatches are dated 30th June, in the evening. To-morrow the Court will publish the details.

My Admiral, arrived here to night, has ordered to embark all the troops here, to fail with them for Ancona, and to attack it by fea. I have also ordered ships to Fano and Pefaro, to take on board such troops as may be there. I hope to be able to give more agreeable news the day after to morrow, &c.

TURKEY.

(Extracted from the Vienna Court Gazette.)

According to an official report, received from Acre at Constantinople, from Ghezar Ghazi Achmed Pacha, then Governor of Saida and Syria, and likewise Seraskier or General in Chief of all the troops in that country, General Buonaparte entirely cea-sed, since the beginning of May, to fire upon the fortress while the garrison continued, by order of Ghezar Pacha, to harass the enemy day and night, from the redoubts before the City, and by several little sorties.

the 6th, a Turkish flotilla arrived in the road of Acre

On the 6th, a Turkish flotilla arrived in the road of Acre, with the auxiliary corps from the Porte under Merabut Zade, Hassan Beg and Capigi Ismael Beg, collected at Rhodus. They began that very night to land some troops and to reinforce the principal forts of Acre.

The enemy, aware of this reinforcement, poured a terrible shower of balls from all their artillery upon the fortrees, during the same night; on the next day, while all the troops, newly disembarked, were just preparing for a general sortic in concert with the garrison, they attacked a tower called Aly Burgi, which they had burnt before. But all the French who penetrated there, were so warmly received by the Mussulmen, that, with the help of God, not one escaped the sword, not to menwith the help of God, not one escaped the sword, not to men tion the great number killed by the well-directed fire of the artillery and the discharge of unsquerry of the besieged. Only one Frenchman was kept alive, till his deposition was

The next evening, at eight o'clock, the enemy renewed their attack upon the same half-burnt tower, in hopes that the Turks would not be able to motor, the disgrace and loss of the preceding day. But all the assailants were again cut in pieces by the brave defenders, and Buonaparte's hopes frustrated a second time.

Desperate from these repeatedly frustrated attempts, blusses parter resolved the next day upon a new storm, which was, however, again beaten off, with great loss to the French, for all who penetrated were cut in pieces.

The following days, till the 21st of May, the French General only annoyed both the fortress and its towers, by a continual and very brisk fire of artillery. This induced all the troops in the fortress to a general sally, in which an immens of the French were sarrly cut to pieces, partly distroops in the fortress to a general sally, in which an immense number of the French were partly cut to pieces, partly dispersed, and, by the help of the Almighty, so completely defeated, that Buonsparte was forced to set fire to his own camp and baggage, and to retreat with the small remains of his troops, under cover of the night, to the environs of Jaffa—Ghezur Pacha ordered his cavalry to pursue the flying enemy, and dispatched necessary instructions to several places, to cut off, if possible, or obstruct the road on which the French re-

Meanwhile, the said Seraskier Pacha has forwarded the eads of thirteen French Generals and Chiefs, and of three hun heads of thirteen French Generals and Chiefs, and of three hundred commissioned and non-commissioned officers, to the Porte, at Constantinople, where they arrived on the 12th June, and were put up the next day, agreeable to custom, in front of the principal gate of the Grand Signior's Palace, (Babi Humajum) with an inscription of the above event, publicly exposed to the inhabitants of that city.

> FRENCH REPUBLIC. PARIS-JULY 14.

Yesterday evening there was much agitation in this city. Crowds were collected at the Manege and Thuilleries. Each party made the ufual exclamations, but a strong armed force posted in the garden intimidated them all, and prevented any diforders; befides, it rained, and as Petion once observed, there are never any disturbances in Paris during bad weather.

A prodigious quantity of tword-canes, piftols, and fabres, have lately been fold in Paris. A general irritation prevails in mens minds.

By a decree of the 17th day of this month, the Executive Directory have ordered an army to be formed between New Brifack and Duffeldorf, to be called the army of the Rhine, and General Moreau is to be the Commander in Chief.

Reclamations are made in favour of Barrere, who was driven from the legislative body in the 5th year as ineligible, because he was before condemned to transportation, by a decree of the National Convention. The old Directory are reproached with having intended to imprison him in the Isle of Rhe, that he might be afterwards transported to Cayenne.

The anniversary of the 14th July was yesterday celebrated with great solemnity. The first Magistrates of the Republic proceeded to the Champ de Mars, accompanied by an immense multitude of citizens. They all repeated, with enthufiafm, the oath to make the Republic triumph over all its enemies.

New events are still expected. The actual fituation of feveral men who fill great places is not yet reckoned definitive. A proof of this may be drawn from the opinion of Real, who has faid that " the day of the 30th Prairial was merely the revolution of a feraglio, and the work of fome ennuchs."

20 MESSIDOR-IULY 17.

General Harry, who commands our troops on the frontiers of Piedmont, has written that they have been in the most absolute privation since the evacuation of Italy, without cloaths and pay. Measures have been taken to remedy this grievance.

General Macdonald is arrived at Pistoia, in Tuscany. He has caused the principal passages of the Appennines to be occupied by fome corps, so that he is free from molestation. The General has detached some corps towards the Bolognese and the March of Ancona, both menaced by the Russians.

The Council of Five Hundred have yesterday admitted the denunciation against the four Ex-directors, Merlin, Treilhard, Reubell, and Lepaux.

The Directory learnt, officially, yesterday, the junction of Macdonald and Moreau. Joubert had fet out in the morning; a courier was fent after him with the Undoubtedly on the 18th of June you destroyed the enemies of liberty, and promised French people to maintain the Constitution of the thir French people to maintain the Constitution of the third yer. You must then declare yourselves. The French people do say wish for more convulsions, nor changes, nor scaffolds. The desire no more of the regime of terror of 1793. They want only a constitutional regime. But you know the consequences of a political contest are not always those which was sought for. The 9th Thermidor led to the 15th Vendemine, and the 18th Fructidor to the 22d Floreal. Why this? Because party men placed themselves belind Republicans for the purpose of appropriating to themselves the fruits of these day. There exists a grand conspiracy of Royalists, which I promise to unmask at an early day. Their companies are organized at Paris. They have their correspondences with the departments of the west, with Conde, with Suwarrow, with Prince Charles: They expect, with imputience, the moment when the armies of the enemy shall be at our frontier, to embarrass the operations of the interior, and assassinate Republicans. EDINBURGH-JULY 27.

The columns of our paper this day are filled with intelligence of high importance.

The Hamburgh mail brings the important account of fome desperate fighting between Suwarrow and Mo-NEAU. Og the 26th ultimo the Ruffian General arrived at Alessandria and joined Bellegarde. The army then advanced and encamped on the 27th between Novi and Allessandria; the French, in the mean time, retreated towards Gayi; the Austrians followed them. The details from Italy come down no later than the 27th, but the Vienna account of the 6th inflant fays, that a courier arrived that morning from Suwarrow, with dispatches to the 30th of June, inclusive, stating, that, after three days hard fighting, he had succeeded in defeating MOREAU, who was retiring to Genoa. No mention is made of his having received any fresh troops, nor of his having been joined by MACDONALD. MACDONALD, the Vienna Gazette fays, is retreating towards Piltoia, with an intention to collect his troops at Florence, and proceed to Leghorn.

General VICTOR's division has retaken the road to the Riviere of Genoa by Borgo Val di Taro. A strong Rushan corps has, it is faid, made a descent above Ancona, which place was to be vigouroufly attacked both by fea and land; fome accounts fay that it has been taken. It is SUWARROW's intention to make an attack upon the strong mountain pass of the Bochetta, which is the key to Genoa In 1746 the Imperialist took it by storm, and soon afterwards made thomselves masters of Genoa.

In Switzerland the armies remain inactive; there has been some warm fighting near Kehl, in which the French appear to have obtained fome advantages.

A Pruffian courier arrived at Vienna with some very important dispatches on the 6th, and returned the same day with the answer of the Austrian Government.

The Vienna Gazette gives an official account of the perations before Acre. From the beginning to the 21st May, several very desperate but unsuccessful affaults were made. On that day the garrifon made a general fally, and BUONAFARTE, after fetting fire to his camp and baggage, was forced to retreat to the environs of Jaffa. The Constantinople accounts of the 18th June add, that he was wounded, and that his communication betwirt Jaffa and Cairo is cut off.

By the London Gazette we have a confirmation of the defeat of BUONAPARTE in his repeated attacks upon Acre. He has been obliged to retire from before that place, the troops of GHEZAR PACHA are following him closely; and it is flated that his retreat is cut off.

The heads of 13 Generals and 300 inferior officers have been fent to Constantinople where they have been exhibited in public.

Paris papers, to the 20th instant inclusive, have been

From the armies in Italy they bring an account which they flate to be an official one, of Moreau and Mac-ponald having at last effected a junction. No details are given of that event; nor of the place where the junction was effected. It is probable that it took place at Genoa. MACDONALD retreated by the way of Pilloia; in attempting to gain one of the principal paffes, of the Appenines, a warm contest ensued with an Austrian corps which is said to have lost 600 men. Of Morreau's movements there is no official account. No mention is made of those battles, which the letters from Vienna, by the Hamburgh mail, state to have taken place between the 27th and 30th June

In Switzerland no battle has taken place, but Mas SENA's force is represented to be between 60 or 70,000 men, and a decifive engagement is expected speedily.

The papers affert politively, that the French and Spanish squadrons left Carthagena on the 24th June. Letters from Madrid of the 1st July fav, that no news has been received respecting the fleets fince their departure from Carthagena. The last Paris journals informed us of three ships having been taken off Toulon by the Englifh, with troops on board. It appears that there were three frigates and two brigs, with 1300 men from Egypt. The men were landed at Antibes, on condition of not ferving out of the Republic for the space of one year. The frigates names are Courageuse, Junon, and

The diffurbances which the opening of the clubs gave rife to have subsided. The effect is principally attributed to the speeches of Sykyrs, Buonaparre, and TALOT, on the 14th of July, all vowing to defend the Constitution, and inveighing against the return of terrorism. Another cause of the restoration of tranquility is the decree path by the Council of Five Hundred for bringing REUBELL, MERLIN, TREILHARD, and LEPAUX to trial.

TALLEYRAND has given in his refignation, which has been accepted.

In Holland confiderable apprehensions are entertained with respect to the secret expedition, and anonymous letters have been sent to the Legislature, accusing one of the Directors of holding a correspondence with the Eaglish. Preparations are making in various points to resist invasion; but 20,000 more men are wanted. But the most important article, if it be true, in the Paris papers, is one in the Ami des Lois and the Moniteur, of the 19th inft. politively afferting, " that the King of Prusha has refused the Rushans a passage through his territories, and has given the French Republic fresh marks of his confidence by withdrawing a part of the troops which kept the line of demarcation.

A paper of the next day (the 20th inft.) states, on the contrary, the permission given to the Russian troops to pass through the Prussian territories, as an argument in proof of Prussia having joined the coalition.

It is faid that Sieves was the author of the present constitution of France, or rather the constitution of this constitution was Boissy d'Anglas, who was proscri-bed with Pichegru. Sieyes opposed several of the pronifions of it. He was not even a member of the Committee by whom it was submitted to the Convention, and he is now understood to be fecretly inimical to it.

spectable affemblage of spectators. Wednesday, his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county of Lanark, fined in fifty shillings, WIL-LIAM GARDNER, coal-driver, for having wantonly ob structed a Gentleman's carriage on the road between Glafgow and Camlachie.

We hear from Thurso, that WILLIAM MUNRO, runner of the mail betwixt Dunbeath and that place, has been apprehended on a charge of robbing the Edinburgh bag of letters to Thurso. Mr Du Brsson, dentift, arrived this day at his house in St Andrew's Street, from Glafgow. The Treasurer of the Glasgow Infirmary received Eleven Guineas from the grenadier company of the first regiment of Royal Glafgow Volunteers.

The Lord LIEUTENANT of Ireland fet off from Dublin on Monday morning upon a fouthern tour, ac-companied by his fon, Lord BROOME, and Colonel LITTLEHAILS, his Excellency's private fecretary. The freedom of the Corporation of Londonderry has been lately presented to Sir J. Borlass Warren, Bt. K. B. in a handsome gold box, with an inscription expressive of their gratitude for the victory he atchieved over the French fleet on the 10th of October 1798, off the coast of Ireland, when they attempted an invasion.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE. -000

Thursday arrived in Leith Roads, the Safeguard gun-boat, with the Mary, Gordon, and Eliza, Stewart, from Petersburgh, and several other ships from the Baltic. They sailed under convoy of the Hermes armed ship, the Pouncer gunboat, and the above mentioned one, with a fleet of above 100 sail. The Hermes proceeded to the southward with a part of the fleet, and the Pouncer gun-boat to the northward with the ships of Liverpool, &c.

The reports brought by the ships from Petersburgh is, that when they left that place, the most active exertions were making, that troops were constantly out exercising, and not a soldier was to be had, as usual, to work on board the ships; that seven line-of-battle ships, with their lower deck guns taken out, were preparing to take troops on board, which, it was reported, were to be landed by them at Lubec.

The Pomonus, Ramsay, one of the Jamaica fleet, strived in the Clyde on Wednesday. She left the fleet, consisting of 112 sail, on the 20th inst off Cape Clear, all well. Captain Ramsay says, that the following are the only other ships in thefleet bound for the Clyde, though it is generally believed there are several more: Elizabeth, Thomson; Elizabeth, Raeside; Neptune, Bradshaw; George, Colquhoun; Eagle, Haggart; Jane Farie; and Fingal, Fieher.

The Gipsey, Capt. Lea, arrived at Greenock on Wednesday morning from Quebec, after a passage of 28 days; made the land on Saturday last, when he spoke an American Brig from Charleston in Georgia, bound for Liverpool, which had been chased, on the Monday preceding, off Torry island, by a French privateer, schooner rigged, mounting 16 guns; but running to the northward, he escaped during the night. On the day following, being then a lattle to the northwest of Islay, was boarded by a revenue lugger, which was cruising for the purpose of giving information to all the vessels she could meet, of the said privateer being on the coast.

Long-Ashton, near Bristol, dared June 25, 1799.

I FFEL it a duty incumbent on me as a clergyman, to state, for the good of the afflicted, that I am restored from a great weakness, with a long train of horrid symptoms attendant on a Nervous Complaint of many years standing, by the use of the CORDIAL BALM OF GILEAD, though land remedies prescribed by the faculty, as well as those advertised, were tried in vain. My spouse also derived great hench there from; and several of the first families in the vicinity of Britol have declared they owe the recovery of their health salely to the great efficacy of that valuable Restorative, I therefore think it cannot be too generally known.
